

Nathan Trotter

Trusted for Over 200 Years

September 10, 2026

Press Release

Nathan Trotter & Co., Inc. and Huntore Australia Pty Ltd are pleased to announce the execution of a long-term offtake agreement under which Nathan Trotter will purchase up to 100% of Huntore's tin concentrate production from its mining and processing operations in Queensland, Australia. The transaction has been supported and financed by STG Metals.

The agreement strengthens supply chain links between Australia and the United States and supports the development of secure and diversified critical minerals supply chains among the respective countries.

Tyler Morris, Vice President of Nathan Trotter, said, "Securing feedstock is a key focus as we look to increase production of critical minerals in the United States. We are grateful to miners and commodities traders in Huntore and STG that wish to partner in our strategic vision."

Jim Moonier, Chairman of Huntore, said, "We believe this agreement with Nathan Trotter will further the minerals supply chain cooperation between the Australian Federal Government, the Queensland State Government and the U.S. Government through Pax Silica and other initiatives."

About Nathan Trotter Inc.

Formed in 1789, Nathan Trotter is a U.S.-based metals processor and one of the country's leading tin producers, operating recycling and primary tin smelters in Pennsylvania and Virginia and serving customers across a range of industrial and strategic sectors.

About Huntore

Huntore is an Australian mining company focused on the development, production and processing of tin and other critical minerals in Queensland, Australia.